

house for sale Boimorto, Arzúa

Built at the beginning of the 20th century, this 172 m² house to be renovated is situated on a 4169 m² plot in the village of Romelas (Boimorto, A Coruña), in the Arzúa region. In addition to its enormous size, which would allow for any extension or annex, the property has its own water source.

The interior, although in perfect condition, needs to be renovated, but it has several jewels such as a traditional Galician kitchen known as a "lareira", the nerve centre of rural life and the heart of any home. It also has a traditional wood-burning oven, which makes it a unique place to work and socialise, especially on the cold and rainy Galician winter nights.

The property is located in the region of Arzúa, the last stop on the road to Santiago de Compostela and 20 minutes from the Galician capital. If you want to live in an oasis of peace, surrounded by countryside and nature, with all the space in the world at your disposal, but close to urban centres such as Boimorto, Arzúa or Santiago, this is certainly your best option.

The area is crossed by two regional roads that lead to Santiago and A Coruña via the motorway, and 6 provincial roads that link the area to neighbouring towns such as Arzúa, Frades and Santiago.

Perfect as a second home for holidays or weekend breaks. It goes without saying that it is the best option to live in a possible pandemic, with more than 4000 metres of land at your disposal.
