Guadalcanal in the heart of the Sierra Norte of Seville, has good communication by road, train or bus. The last town in the province of Seville that borders the province of Badajoz in Extremadura. It is the highest town in the province with an altitude of 662 meters. A typical mountain village with whitewashed houses and tiled roofs. In its gastronomy, the Iberian pig, homemade sweets, olive oil and mushrooms stand out. Guadalcanal itself as a whole is very beautiful, but it also has a variety of monuments to visit, such as its food market that was once the church of San Sebastián, in the Gothic-Mudejar style of the sixteenth century. The Church of the Assumption is also in the Gothic-Mudejar style. The Paseo del Palacio with wonderful views of the Sierra del Agua, has a children's playground for the little ones and a bar with a terrace Old church of Santa Ana in the Mudejar style of the sixteenth century is currently used for recreational activities. The hermitage of Our Lady of Guaditoca, patron saint of the town, in Tuscan style was built in the seventeenth century. The hermitage of San Benito in Mudejar style in the fifteenth century. The Holy Spirit convent founded in the sixteenth century and which at one time was occupied by the missionary sisters. The Cerro de la Capitana located in the Sierra del Viento, is the highest in the Sierra Norte with an elevation of 960 meters. The viewpoint of La Capitana, excellent for the observation of birds of prey and migratory birds, is a good hiking route. On clear days you can see several villages in the province of Extremadura.

You can also visit nearby towns such as Alanís, San Nicolás del Puerto, Cazalla de la Sierra, Casas de Reina and Reina among others.

There are also rural getaways such as a visit to the mines of La Jayona, the caves of Santiago, the source and waterfalls of the Hueznar river, the Pintado reservoir, the Sotillo reservoir, the hermitage of Our Lady of the Ara, taking the Porrillo lane you can do the route by bicycle. There are countless routes in the middle of the mountains that can be done on foot.
